

GOT KIDNAPPER OF WILSON BABY IN TRENTON, N. J.

Child Was With Her When Arrested—Father and Detectives Sent to Identify Her.

Mary Chambers, the young woman who stole Baby George Wilson from its home, No. 75 Bank street, last Saturday afternoon, was arrested to-day by the police of Trenton, N. J., and locked up on a charge of kidnapping. The child was with her.

Detectives Wade and Sweeney have been sent over with the boy's father to identify her.

Mary Chambers was a boarder in the Wilson home when it was at No. 423 West Seventeenth street. She had caused a quarrel between the husband and wife and the kidnapping was the result of the husband's effort to rid himself of the young woman's persistent attentions.

The police of the Charles street station have worked faithfully on the case. They traced the woman to Jersey City and there lost her on Monday. She had a bank account in one of the department stores and this place has been under constant police surveillance since the woman disappeared.

The boy's father is a printer and knew the stealing of the boy he has given up his work to give all his time to the search. Mrs. Wilson has been prostrated and under medical care since Monday.

Miss Chambers took the child out to buy him a velocipede and did not bring him back.

Brinkerhoff Almost Lost His Ring and Overcoat in Learning It.

Three well-dressed young men, Henry J. Jones, John Foster and Charles Morgan, giving their occupations respectively as stenographer, bookkeeper and bartender, were accused to-day at detective headquarters by Mortimer Brinkerhoff of having him-thatched him out of a seal ring and an overcoat.

Mr. Brinkerhoff, who is a butcher from Jersey City, was walking along Fulton street, near Nassau, last night when he heard a gentle thud on the pavement behind him and three men stepped from the shadow of a doorway. One of them picked up a small object, and when the light shone upon it Brinkerhoff saw it was a fat pocket-book.

"I think you dropped your pocket-book," and extended the wallet to the butcher, who took it without hesitation. "Thank you very much," he said, and started to go, when another of the men spoke up.

"Wait a minute," he said. "You look like an honest man, and I have no doubt the purse is yours, but we don't know you, sir, and I hope you won't take it amiss if we ask you if you have some security that you can give us."

Still fingering the pocket-book, which seemed to him to be heavily padded, Brinkerhoff eagerly replied that he would be glad to furnish security, and quickly divested himself of his overcoat and a seal ring.

"That is entirely satisfactory," said the man. "You won't object, I am sure, to my going around to a jeweler and having the ring set in a new case. And when the Jeweler agreed he disappeared with the ring.

He remained away so long that the other two men, one holding Brinkerhoff's overcoat, volunteered to go look for him, and their victim said he would wait right there until they returned. When they were on of sight he opened the pocket-book and found it neatly stuffed with slips of blank paper, so he waited no longer, but went at once to Detective Headquarters.

The three men were arrested an hour afterward at No. 123 Bowers, and the ring and overcoat returned to Brinkerhoff.

Two years for larceny.

Diamond Salesman Stole a Pearl Necklace Worth $5,500.

Charles H. Weber, at one time one of the best known diamond salesmen in New York, was sent to Sing Sing to-day for a term of two years. He was convicted of grand larceny, first degree, by Judge Crane, in General Sessions, for stealing a $5,500 pearl necklace from Ludecke & Heiser, of No. 170 Broadway, in September, 1905.

Weber pawned the gem for $2,000 and then returned the ticket to the firm. He was arrested shortly after the theft, but would not admit the act. Weber is forty-two years old, and lived at No. 622 West One Hundred and Fifty-eighth street. He has been out of work for several years, owing, his former friends say, to evil habits.

Surplus Stock of Men's New
$1.50 Spring Shirts at 79c

THE manufacturer's stock was piling up with insufficient orders in sight to keep pace with his output. He waited until he was forced to seek immediate relief and was willing to pay the penalty of a quick sale.

Many haberdashers who run little shops and cater for an exclusive patronage have these identical shirts on show, as fashion's smartest and latest style, at much more than $1.50, but we say they are $1.50. Shirts, because we sold similar shirts at that price some time ago.

This is a rare chance to lay in a large trade-mark, which we agreed to sell at a sacrifice. Materials are fine percales, made in pleated or plain bosoms, attached or detached collars, in an unlimited variety of patterns; all this season's latest productions—all $1.50 values—choice.
